COVENT GARDEN MAY 7.

The weather has been fine since Monday and the vegetables are improving both in quality and quantity. A few forced potatoes now are on the market. In the potato market there is a crop of potatoes that are coming to market. The supply from the Continent of fresh peas, new and French and Swedes are very plentiful. Lettuce and Endive, and Lettuce, is still considerable. Both Endive and Radish are still growing well and are in good order. The supply of lettuce is still very good.

Monday, May 7.—The supply of English Wheat to-day from the Irish coast was larger than last week. A few samples were picked early this morning at a decline of 1s 6d per qr., but at this time there was a clearance that was not payable and some quantity retained unsold towards the close of the market. The demand for English Wheat was quite small and the prices of this day on average were not such as to attract any large quantity of English Wheat to the market.
