THE FIELD, THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN'S N

CARE OF WOODS

The Farmer of Wisconsin should consult the Journal of Wood Culture, an excellent journal, published by the Wisconsin Forestry Society.

The Journal contains a "Digest of Forestry" and a "Notes" section, which is the best of its kind. The editor, Dr. J. C. Perkins, has done his best to give the journal a high standard of excellence. The material is of the highest quality, and the journal is well edited. It is a most valuable work to the farmer, and one which should be in every household. The journal is published by the Wisconsin Forestry Society, and is sold at the rate of $1.00 per year in advance. The subscription price is $1.00 per year in advance.

The influence of woods on the soil of a country is very generally admitted, and it is not only admitted, but it is also admitted that the woods are the best protection which the soil can have. The woods are the best protection which the soil can have, and they are the best protection which the soil can have.
