

Croft Cott. Barts Row.

Nov. 18. 1871.

Dear Darwin,

On second thoughts an-
-heliotropic will not do at all. It would mean non heliotropic.
I should have thought that the best nomenclature would be proheliotropic = solipetal (to coin another word)

an heliotropic = neither solipetal nor solipegal
apheliotropic = solipegal

But I think that it would be quite ^{possible} ~~clear~~ to speak of heliotropic and apheliotropic. I presume that the latter word would in general lose its second h, and
be written apheliotropic.
I do not know whether from a philological point of view these words are correctly formed.

I should have thought that negative heliotropic was an unhappy phrase.

Yours ever,

Henry Jackson.

~~F. Darwin Esq.~~

heliotropic

german

Ap heliotropic

apogonism