Dear Sir

Some weeks ago on looking over some papers of my late uncle Mr Daniel Sharpe's, we came upon these six letters from your father. We did not destroy them with many other papers thinking that collectors of autographs might value them but hearing now that you would be glad to see any letters

I send them to you for
Of course we have no right to keep them at all. There was one other note which contained nothing but thanks for a book or which I therefore do not send.

Perhaps you know that my uncle was, at the time of his death in 1856 President of the Geological Society & had written a good deal on slaty cleavage &

I remain
Yours faithfully
Catharine Sharpe
