Dear Mr Darwin

I send you such of your father's letters as I can find - ^{numbered 1 to 18} I shall be very glad that you should have copies made of them. I value them so much that I shall feel obliged if you will return me the originals when you have done with them. I have no copies of those of my own he refers to. If you find such, & you will ^{send} ~~return~~ them I will have them copied & will return them.

I send a copy of an address in "Surgery" which I gave before the Brit. Med. Assoc in 1866 to a party which your father refers very kindly in the first of the 8 letters - I refer you to an note of Hackell this autumn which interested me - the more as he reverts in one part of it to a visit by your father at Down about the same year & to the prevalent views in England at that time regarding your father's then recent publications - I think with pleasure that I was among those who at an early period said a word or two published on the side of the Review Truth.
