My dear Mr Darwin

29
I am afraid
I have but very few letters of your father, but what I may have I will gladly lend to you for the purpose you mention. We are at present in London, having arrived here a few days ago, and we propose to remain here till some time in July; as soon as we return to Barton I will look out for the letters, & I hope ^{they} it will not then be too late for you; if however the delay should be ^{inconvenient to} too long for you, I will try what I can do. I am very glad you are undertaking a memoir of him, & I am sure it will be very interesting. I very much regret that (tho' my own acquaintance with him began about 40 years ago) I seldom had opportunities of meeting him, and (of late years especially) saw him but very seldom.

Believe me

Yours very truly

Charles F. Burbury
