Heavily that you were gathering whether the proposed correspondence of your father As the trustees of publication I beg to send you exact copies of the few letters I had the honour and great good fortune of receiving from him. The originals I hold too precious to run the risk of the ocean.

Trusting you may receive them

I remain with great respect
Your obedient servant
E. S. Morse.
